About Roland Emmerich & Centropolis Entertainment

Centropolis Entertainment is the film and television production company of international filmmakers, director/producer/screenwriter Roland Emmerich and his sister, producer Ute Emmerich. In 2017, the company significantly expanded its scope beyond traditional producing in order to own its original intellectual property. Beginning with the recent WWII action epic “Midway”, which has grossed almost $140 million worldwide to date, Centropolis raises all of its funding independently and oversees all aspects of development, production, financing, delivery, and distribution and marketing with its U.S. and international partners. The science fiction epic, “Moonfall”, will be the second feature film produced under this model.

Last year, Roland Emmerich received the Honorary Award for career achievement from the Bavarian Film Awards, the most highly regarded accolades for filmmaking in his home country of Germany. In January, the Visual Effects Society (VES) bestowed its Visionary Award to him at its annual gala. Since Centropolis’ inception in 1985, its 30 films – including “Independence Day”, “Stargate”, “Godzilla”, “The Patriot”, “The Day

After Tomorrow", "2012", "White House Down", and "Midway" - have grossed more than $4 billion worldwide.
